

PRISON SENTENCES FOR WHITE SLAVES

MYSTERY ABOUT GIRL DYING THE HOSPITAL

The mystery which surrounded Grace McKnight, the pretty maiden who is lying at the point of death at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was deepened by the issuance by police investigators of a bulletin about her which was received at headquarters from a source unknown to the police. The official at the hospital said that Mrs. McKnight is there, but does not absolutely admit the bulletin to the public.

The police authorities, however, have been told the bulletin is true.

Information received of the relatives of Grace McKnight, thirty-four years of age, who formerly lived at No. 41 Warren street, and who is now dangerously ill at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

The hospital authorities refuse to say who is the cause of the girl's illness, but it is believed that she has been a victim of several diseases. She was extremely pale, and this was because of her exceptional good looks and her usually healthy disposition.

She was widely acquainted and had a large list of regular patients in her various places of employment. It is believed that she was a victim of a heart ailment, and that she was taken to the hospital in a condition of collapse.

She was found by a neighbor, who took her to the hospital. The police were notified and a physician called. It is believed that she was taken to the hospital in a condition of collapse.

She has been lying in a comatose condition at the hospital and it is unable to tell anything about herself. Her health began to fail several weeks ago and she became anemic and dispirited, as it became evident that she was not improving.

Then she gave up her work and remained at home at the boarding house. She has been very pale and her health has been failing for some time.

The police hope they will be able to find out something about her and her relatives, and that she will be able to tell her relatives of her condition.

Apthorp, Boston Author, Is Dead In Switzerland

William Foster Apthorp, the Boston dramatic and musical critic, died yesterday at Vevey, Switzerland, according to a cable received today by his friends in Boston.

Mr. Apthorp was born October 24, 1848, in Boston. He attended Harvard, graduating in 1870. For several years he devoted himself to the study of music, under teachers as H. J. Lang and J. M. Shaw. In 1875 he married Gertrude Lathrop, and the couple lived at No. 14 Otis place.

Mr. Apthorp was a prominent member of the Tavern and St. Nicholas clubs of Boston.

'I'LL FIGHT FOR KING TILL DEATH' DECLARES WIFE

"I'm not going to take this answer as final. I won't give up fighting until I die," Mrs. Corbally P. King today declared at her home at Whitman in discussing the action of the Executive Council in Douglas, by a vote of five to three, to remove her husband from the State Hospital at Bridgewater, where he was transferred from State prison.

King's wife, "Chas," was full of indignation with the other members of the family, that his father would be released, declared: "This isn't the end of my fight for my father."

Her father, P. King, was a well-known character in the city of Boston. He was a member of the Boston Police Department, and was known for his fighting spirit. He was a member of the Boston Police Department, and was known for his fighting spirit.
